

1. What are the delivery formats for Early Programs this year?

All 7 Early Programs will have in-person sessions on Wednesday, November 1, in Philadelphia.

With the exception of the Advances in Research Conference, all Early Programs also include on-demand content, which will launch in the ASN eLearning Center on Wednesday, October 25.

Advances in Research Conference: Multi-Omic Analyses of Tissue Microenvironments in the Kidneys
Fundamentals of Renal Pathology	Kidney Transplantation: 2023 Update
Genetics in Clinical Nephrology	Maintenance Dialysis: 2023 Update
Glomerular Diseases: 2023 Update	Nephrocardiology: An Emerging Field in Medicine

2. What are the delivery formats for Annual Meeting sessions (November 2–5) this year?

All sessions will take place in-person in Philadelphia, and all faculty (moderators and speakers) are expected to travel to Philadelphia for their session(s). If you cannot participate in-person in Philadelphia, please contact ASN at kidneyweek@asn-online.org as soon as possible.

3. How can faculty find details on their sessions?

Go to the faculty list and click on your name. Session details include date, time, location, and more.

4. What are the key dates for Annual Meeting faculty?

- October 11 – Speakers upload preliminary presentations for moderator review. An email with upload instructions will be sent in early October.
- October 20 – Moderators provide feedback on preliminary presentations to speakers.
- Session Date – At least 4 hours prior to the session start time, speakers must check in at the onsite Speaker Ready Room (Third Floor Overlook).

5. When is the Speaker Ready Room open?

6. Is there a slide template for Kidney Week 2023? Are faculty required to use it?

Click here for the slide template. Faculty are encouraged but not required to use it. Please use a widescreen (16:9) slide format if possible.

7. Are there any restrictions on what faculty can include in their presentations?

Please do not include copyrighted images or videos*, commercial logos, or de-identified patient photos in your presentation.

 Scientific images such as journal figures are permissible; please include complete references.*

8. I have other questions not answered here.

Please refer to the 2023 FAQs and other informational Kidney Week 2023 webpages. Please contact ASN at kidneyweek@asn-online.org with any additional questions.
